1 March 2021

Tēnā koe,

Thank you for your interest in the Teaching and Learning Research Initiative: Nāu i Whatu te Kākahu, he Tāniko Tāku. Expression of Interest applications are due by 5pm on Tuesday 4 May 2021.

The TLRI was established by the government in 2003 and 167 projects have been funded since then. The annual funding is $1,555,556 (excluding GST). The TLRI seeks to support research addressing themes of strategic importance to education in New Zealand that will lead to an improvement in outcomes for learners. Partnerships between researchers and practitioners are central to the TLRI.

This year the TLRI fund is prioritising the following areas:

- Research on topics of strategic importance within the early childhood education (ECE) and/or compulsory school sectors.
- Research that supports success for Māori learners as Māori in any sector.
- Research that supports success for Pacific learners in any sector.

Since 2020 there have been two pathways for proposals that support success for Māori learners. These projects can be submitted via the open pathway or via Whatua tū aka, the kaupapa Māori pathway. You can read more about both of these pathways and their criteria in this document.

This document describes how the fund operates and tells you how to submit an Expression of Interest for either pathway. Expressions of Interest are due by Tuesday 4 May 2021. Applicants must use the template available for download as a Word document here: <http://www.tlri.org.nz/apply-funding>. Please use the template for the pathway you are applying for.

You can find out more about the TLRI and the projects it has funded here: <http://www.tlri.org.nz/tlri-research>

If you have a question about the TLRI generally or the Expression of Interest process for the open pathway, please email tlri@nzcer.org.nz, or phone Esther Smaill on (04) 802 1457. If you have a question about the Expression of Interest process for Whatua tū aka, please email or phone Sheridan McKinley, sheridan.mckinley@nzcer.org.nz or (04) 802 1621.

Nāku noa, nā

Esther Smaill
TLRI Project Leader

Ngā mahi kōtui i waenga i te hunga rangahau me te hunga tautōhito |

Partnerships between researchers and practitioners

To be eligible for the fund, proposals need to come from partnerships involving education practitioners and researchers. Practitioners may include, but are not limited to: teachers and kaiako in kindergartens, early childhood centres, kōhanga reo, and Pacific language nests; teachers in kura, primary, intermediate, and secondary schools; and lecturers and tutors working in universities, wānanga, polytechnics, and private training establishments. Students and ākonga; families and whānau; hapū, iwi and communities may also be part of the partnership.

Researcher–practitioner partnerships should be integral to the design of the project. There needs to be a focus on the individuals in the team using their collective expertise, and on all team members having the opportunity to learn from each other, rather than on explicitly developing the research skills of the practitioner members of the project team. In this partnership, practitioners might take the role of advisors, data gatherers, informants, etc. and not necessarily be integral to all aspects of the thinking inside the partnership.

The TLRI is open to researchers working in organisations (e.g., universities or other tertiary institutions) or independently. The TLRI will not enter into contracts with individuals, requiring that contracts be with incorporated societies or similar legal entities. Staff members of the Ministry of Education or other government departments are not eligible to apply.

Applicants from an institution that does not have access to an experienced researcher may contact the TLRI tlri@nzcer.org.nz who may be able to link you with an appropriate person. Please note that postgraduate students can be on project teams, but the TLRI cannot directly fund PhD or Master's study.

Ngā momo kaupapa me ngā taumata whāngai pūtea |

Types of projects and levels of funding

Since 2020 there have been two pathways to funding. The first pathway, the open pathway, is open to proposals from all contexts and settings that meet the criteria. The second pathway, Whatua tū aka, was established in 2020 and is for projects that meet the criteria for a kaupapa Māori project. The criteria for each pathway are described later in this document.

The TLRI encourages applications for projects at different levels of funding. The level of funding requested needs to be appropriate for the scale and scope of the proposed research (e.g., a small pilot study, or a large-scale project involving multiple sites).

Projects will be funded for one, two, or three years. The amount requested may be different for each year<sup>1</sup>. If your project is to continue beyond 2022, you must state clearly the amount of funding you seek for the subsequent years. Note that future funding is subject to ongoing government funding, and to satisfactory performance in the first year. All figures are GST exclusive.

Projects funded through the TLRI can be part of a wider programme of work, but there needs to be clear value added by TLRI funding. Please state if this proposal is part of a larger programme of research, and if so, indicate any other sources of funding (e.g., Teacher-led Innovation Fund, Ako Aotearoa's National Project Fund, institutional funding).

Projects that are “business as usual” e.g., evaluating course changes at an institution, without demonstrating wider strategic and practice value, do not fit the intent of the TLRI. Similarly, while “tool development” may be one of the outputs from a TLRI project (and a contributor to its practice value), the production of a tool without a core and significant research component is out of scope for TLRI funding.

He hātepe whiriwhiri hipanga-rua | Two-stage selection process

There is a two-stage process for submitting proposals. Stage 1 is an Expression of Interest proposal and Stage 2 is a Full Proposal. Expression of Interest proposals are now being sought and must be submitted by 5pm, Tuesday 4 May 2021.

Expressions of Interest will be used to establish a shortlist of applicants who will be invited to submit Full Proposals that will be due in August. At the Full Proposal stage, applicants will be required to demonstrate that there is a partnership agreement in place between researchers and practitioners. The two-stage process provides time for such agreements to be established.

There is no limit on the number of Expression of Interest proposals that can be submitted by individuals or organisations. However, at any one time a person can be named as principal investigator for only one funded TLRI project unless otherwise negotiated with the TLRI team.

An individual can submit applications for both pathways, the open pathway and the Whatua tū aka pathway. However, these would be different proposals.

Ngā whakaritenga kirimana | Contractual arrangements

A contract is signed between the New Zealand Council for Educational Research (NZCER) acting as co-ordinators of the TLRI, and the principal investigator’s institution (the Contractor). NZCER will not enter into contracts with individuals, requiring that contracts be with incorporated societies or similar legal entities.

The following conditions will apply to those who are successful at the Full Proposal stage:

- Funding beyond one year is conditional upon continued government funding of the TLRI and satisfactory performance in the first year of the project.
- The TLRI must be acknowledged as the funding source in any publications, presentations, or similar materials that result from the project.

Funding period

Funding for the successful projects in 2021 will commence on 1 January 2022, subject to contracts being signed. It is expected that research projects will start from the date of commencement stated in the successful applicants’ contracts.

Use of funds

The TLRI seeks to obtain the best value for its funds. This means that purchases of large-scale capital items, such as computers, will not be funded, nor will overseas travel. Depending on their purpose within the project, it may be possible for smaller items to be funded.

Reporting

All projects will be required to provide quarterly or 6-monthly progress reports. Specific requirements will be stipulated in the contract.

Te Poari Tohutohu | Advisory Board

A TLRI Advisory Board is convened by the Ministry of Education. The Advisory Board provides strategic leadership to the TLRI and reviews the recommendations for shortlisting (Stage 1) and project funding (Stage 2). The current Advisory Board is listed here.

Te tūranga whakariterite o NZCER | NZCER's co-ordination role

NZCER co-ordinates and administers the fund on contract to the Ministry of Education. NZCER's role is to:

- provide leadership and operational implementation
- build awareness of the TLRI and its research programmes and results
- implement quality-assurance policies and processes for the TLRI
- create opportunities for building research capability in teaching and learning for researchers and practitioners.

Te āhei o NZCER ki te tono pūtea māna anō | Eligibility of NZCER for funding

NZCER staff members involved with any aspect of the selection or shortlisting process are not eligible to apply for funding from the TLRI or to be members of project teams applying for funding in that particular year. However, it has been agreed with the TLRI Advisory Board that NZCER staff not involved in shortlisting or selection will be eligible to put forward proposals for funding and/or to be members of collaborative teams applying for funding. They must adhere to the conflict of interest guidelines for programme co-ordination.

Te hātepe whiriwhiri | Selection process

Expressions of Interest will be assessed by a selection panel led by NZCER, including researchers from Te Wāhanga, NZCER's kaupapa Māori research unit. Those assessing proposals for Whatua tū aka will have expertise in kaupapa Māori research. The selection panel will make a shortlisting recommendation to the Advisory Board, who must agree to the shortlist. Shortlisted applicants will be invited to submit a Full Proposal.

Full Proposals are assessed by leading researchers external to NZCER. Only those people who are not involved in submitting a bid themselves may undertake this role. The decisions made by the selectors at this stage are independent of the NZCER-based TLRI team.

Feedback will be provided to all applicants and the selection process is subject to independent audit.

It is important that the administration and selection processes for the TLRI are sound, robust, fair, and transparent. NZCER has established procedures to minimise the likelihood of conflicts of interest or breaches of privacy during the handling and selection of the TLRI project proposals.

The TLRI has an appeals and complaints procedure. The appeals procedure is for appeals against decisions taken in relation to shortlisting and funding. The complaints procedure is invoked in situations where an organisation or individual has reason to believe that they have not been appropriately or fairly treated, or that NZCER has not acted properly in its role as coordinator.

The full appeals and complaints policy and procedure can be requested by emailing tlri@nzcer.org.nz, or is available on the website.

Submitting an Expression of Interest: Open pathway

Use this section if you are applying for the open pathway. If you are applying for Whatua tū aka, the kaupapa Māori pathway, use the guidance on pp. 11-18.

Te hōputu me te whakaaturanga mai o tētahi Puka Whakaatu Hiahia | Format and presentation of an Expression of Interest

Expressions of Interest must use the template for the TLRI open pathway available here: <http://www.tlri.org.nz/apply-funding>. Applications not using this template will not be considered. The page limit for each section is stated on the template. Any information exceeding the page limit will not be considered by the selection panel.

There are three sections to complete:

- Cover page
- Description of proposed project and its context: strategic and practice value
- Research design, partnership, and project team: research value.

Please read the following guidance in conjunction with the information in the template.

Description of proposed project and its context: strategic and practice value

This section of the EOI should demonstrate how the project will address principles 1, 2, and 5 of the TLRI.

Principle One: TLRI research projects will address themes of strategic importance to education in Aotearoa New Zealand.

Principle Two: TLRI research projects will build on New Zealand-based research evidence, draw on related international research, and be forward looking.

Principle Five: TLRI research projects will recognise the central role of teachers and students in learning, and the importance of the work being useful in practice.

Expression of Interest proposals should:

- state your research question(s) and make a convincing argument that the question(s) is important for Aotearoa New Zealand education at this time. Questions need to be posed that will increase our knowledge and understanding about key educational issues. Proposals need to show how new knowledge about teaching and learning would be created to complement, and address gaps in, existing knowledge.
- explain how the project aligns with current and future priorities for teaching and learning within and across the early childhood, school, and tertiary sectors. Of special interest is: deepening our understanding about how to address current inequities in educational outcomes; and supporting success for all types of learners in the 21st century. If Māori or Pacific learners are the focus of a project, does their participation support them to be successful as Māori or Pacific peoples? Is there meaningful engagement with whānau and communities? Does the research validate Māori or Pacific ways of being and knowing? Please see the box on p. 8 for guidance about Pacific research.
- provide a clear rationale for the proposed project. This should include what is known, and what else has been written about this field, both in Aotearoa New Zealand and internationally. The rationale should also consider the potential for the project to inform teacher practice and impact on learning. The proposal must demonstrate potential for practical application and indicate how it could lead to improvements in outcomes for learners. Projects that focus on teachers' learning should still consider the potential impact on students' learning.

Research design, partnership, and project team: research value

This section of the EOI should demonstrate how the project will address principles 3 and 4 of the TLRI.

Principle Three: TLRI research projects will be designed to enable substantive and robust findings.

Principle Four: TLRI research projects will be undertaken as a partnership between researchers and practitioners.

Research design, data collection, and analysis

The TLRI encourages proposals from a diversity of methodological approaches. These may include qualitative, quantitative, and mixed-methods approaches, as well as design-based, pre-post design, or a combination of other appropriate research methods. There should be a clear focus on, and measure of, learner outcomes.

Expression of Interest proposals should describe:

- the overall research design
- the data collection methods, including the types of data you intend to collect and how these will be collected
- how you will manage and analyse the data you collect
- how the data will enable you to answer your research questions.

Proposed partnership

Projects need to be designed as partnerships where the collective knowledge of researchers and practitioners is applied to problems in practice. At the EOI stage, the partnership needs to be in place with initial conversations between partners having taken place. If you are shortlisted and asked to submit a Full Proposal, the partnership will need to be fully established and a partnership agreement will need to be in place.

Expression of Interest proposals should:

- describe the nature of your proposed partnership, including name(s) of ECE centres, schools, tertiary teams
- briefly discuss the rationale for the partnership and why the partnership is the right way for you to find the answers to your research questions.

Project team

The selection panel is looking for assurance that the team has the research experience and capability to conduct the proposed research, and the practice experience and capability to ensure close connections to practice. Expression of Interest proposals should list team members and briefly describe their role on the project. This is to be included on the cover sheet and does not need to be repeated in the body of the proposal.

Projects are usually led by a principal investigator who has experience leading research projects (if co-led, at least one of the leaders needs to be an experienced researcher). Collaboration across disciplines and/or institutions is encouraged. It may be appropriate for your project to be led or co-led by a practitioner. In that situation, an experienced researcher must be on the project team. Expression of Interest proposals should provide a short paragraph about the Principal Investigator(s) highlighting relevant experience and qualifications.

Pacific research in the TLRI

The 2018 PBRF guidelines<sup>2</sup> define Pacific research as research that has any, or all, of the following features:

- Pacific methodologies and methods
- Pacific-centred subject-matter
- Impacts on Pacific communities.

Within the TLRI, Pacific projects are those that utilise Pacific research methodologies; impact Pacific learners and communities, and privilege Pacific worldviews and knowledge systems. Please indicate on the cover sheet if your proposal is for a Pacific project. Ideally, Pacific projects are led by Pacific researchers. Pacific projects in the TLRI need to show evidence of purposeful collaboration with Pacific researchers and communities.

To support and encourage Pacific research in the TLRI, we highlight the following resources.

Te Tuku mai i tētahi Puka Whakaatu Hiahia: Whatua tū aka

Submitting an Expression of Interest: Whatua tū aka

Use this section if you are applying for Whatua tū aka, the kaupapa Māori pathway. This section is available in English and te reo Māori. If you are applying for the open pathway, use the guidance on pp. 6-10.

Te hōputu me te whakaaturanga mai o tētahi Puka Whakaatu Hiahia | Format and presentation of an Expression of Interest

Expressions of Interest must use the template for Whatua tū aka available here: <http://www.tlri.org.nz/apply-funding>. Applications not using this template will not be considered. The page limit for each section is stated on the template. Any information exceeding the page limit will not be considered by the selection panel.

There are three sections to complete:

- Cover page
- Te wāhanga tuatahi: focusing on the overarching principles of kaupapa Māori, and on rangatiratanga
- Te wāhanga tuarua: focusing on whanaungatanga, ako, and mana.

Please read the following guidance in conjunction with the information in the template.

There are five principles underpinning Whatua tū aka: Kaupapa Māori, Rangatiratanga, Whanaungatanga, Ako, and Mana<sup>4</sup>. These connected and interdependent concepts should be evident throughout your proposal.

Kaupapa Māori is the overarching principle for Whatua tū aka. Kaupapa Māori assumes the validity and legitimacy of te reo, tikanga, and mātauranga Māori. Your proposal must have a strongly articulated kaupapa Māori focus and approach that will have a transformative impact on the educational experiences of Māori. Proposals must be for research that is by Māori, for Māori, with Māori. The TLRI encourages nuanced and diverse expressions of kaupapa Māori e.g., ā-whānau, ā-kura, ā-hapori, ā-hapū, ā-iwi.

Kōrero mai mō tō kaupapa:

- What is the kaupapa, and why is it important?
- Where did it come from, what does it build on?
- Who will benefit from the research, and how will they benefit?
- What difference will it make?
- What are the research questions?
- What is the research design?
  - What data will you collect and how?
  - How will you manage and analyse the data?

<sup>4</sup> In the descriptions of these principles we drew particularly on www.rangahau.co.nz

Principle One: Rangatiratanga

Rangatiratanga will be embedded in your proposal through your consideration of who the research is for and who initiated it. Rangatiratanga will also be evident in the project's co-design and in the shared decision-making processes that exist between researchers and the community of interest. Your proposal should describe how your research will uphold rangatiratanga and be responsive to local tikanga, context, and kawa.

Kōrero mai mō tō kaupapa:

- Who initiated the research and who is it for?
- How does your research project uphold rangatiratanga?
- How is your research responsive to local tikanga, context, and kawa?

Principle Two: Whanaungatanga

Whanaungatanga is about meaningful and reciprocal relationships. It acknowledges the responsibility and commitment researchers have to each other in the research team and to the community of interest. Your proposal should describe the nature of your existing relationship with the community of interest, as well as the nature of that relationship during the research, and into the future.

Kōrero mai mō tō kaupapa:

- What is the nature of your relationship with the community of interest and how is this reflected in the design of the project?
- What are the relationships and roles within the project team?

Principle Three: Ako

Ako is the essence of the TLRI. All projects are about teaching and learning. Ako will also be embedded in how the research is undertaken, for example, through consideration of tuakana-teina relationships that will change across the team at different stages of the project. In a TLRI context, ako is also about building the capability of emerging or new researchers and others in the community of interest. Your proposal should consider the ako opportunities for everyone involved in the research to learn and lead. At the Full Proposal stage (not required now), applicants will also be asked to consider ako opportunities with regard to dissemination of research findings.

Kōrero mai mō tō kaupapa:

- How will ako be demonstrated throughout this project?
- How is capability building considered in this project?

Principle Four: Mana

This principle acknowledges the mana of tamariki, whānau, kura, hapori, hapū, and iwi. Your proposal should demonstrate how your research will uphold the mana of all involved. Your proposal should also articulate how your project will seek to leave people in a better place as a result of their participation in the research.

Kōrero mai mō tō kaupapa:

- How will this research uphold mana tangata?
- How will this research uphold the mana of te reo, tikanga, and mātauranga Māori?
- How is power shared and balanced in your research?

At the Full Proposal stage (not required now), applicants will also be asked to demonstrate they have considered research ethics within their project. This information is not required in the EOI proposal.

Ngā paearu mō te whiriwhiri | Criteria for selection

The criteria assess the extent to which the proposal:

- addresses an area of critical importance to Māori education
- provides a clear rationale for the project
- poses a research question(s) that will build new knowledge and is appropriate for the proposed scope and design of the project
- describes a project that has the potential to have a positive impact on learning and lead to outcomes of significance for tamariki Māori, ākongā Māori, whānau Māori, kaiako, kura, hapori, hapū, iwi
- explains how the project will uphold rangatiratanga
- has a strong kaupapa Māori research design that will address the research question(s) and enable substantive and robust findings
- demonstrates the existence of meaningful and reciprocal relationships
- has a project team led by a principal investigator(s) with relevant experience in leading similar research projects, and a team that brings mana relevant to the project
- explains how the project will build the capability of all involved
- explains how the project will uphold mana tangata, and the mana of te reo, tikanga, and mātauranga Māori.
